Course description

During the semester you, as a student of Introduction to Microeconomics the course, will get to know an economist's way of thinking, get a first look at the tools used by economists, and have a feel for the major subject areas of economics, such as public finance, international trade, and environmental economics.

Course Objectives (Learning Outcomes)

As stated in the list of ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT'S STANDARD LEARNING OUTCOMES, you should expect to learn the following from this course.

1. Basic economic concepts including opportunity costs, scarcity, positive and normative economics.
2. How to analyze production possibilities of firms and countries, the sources of their comparative advantages, and gains from trade.
3. How to use the supply and demand model to understand how markets work.
4. How elasticity is calculated and its relevance to understanding markets.
5. How to analyze consumer behavior with respect to decisions about consumption, savings and employment.
6. How to analyze decisions firms make about pricing, output, employment and investment.
7. How to analyze the behavior of firms in alternative market structures including perfect competition, monopoly, monopolistic competition and oligopoly.
8. How to apply basic game theory to strategic interaction between companies and individuals.
9. How to use the concepts of equity, efficiency, and market failure to analyze and evaluate government policies such as price floors and ceilings, tax policy, environmental policy, etc.
10. How to apply economic concepts and ideas to situations not specifically covered in class.

Prerequisites for the course

You will also be able to purchase the package or individual items (perhaps with a different ISBN) directly from www.macmillanlearning.com

Course grade

Final grade for this course is based on your performance in homework, two full period exams, a final exam and class participation. The breakdown is:

Homework	(due most Tuesdays)	15%
Class Participation	show what you know questions & online games	14%
2 full period Exams	(02/23, 04/10)	23% each
Final Exam:	THURSDAY, May 03 (12:00 P.M. – 03:00 P.M.)	25%

STUDENTS MAJORING or MINORING IN ECONOMICS MUST EARN 'C' OR BETTER GRADE IN THIS COURSE.

THERE ARE NO EXTRA CREDITS IN THIS COURSE.

The exact extent of curving the final grade will be decided after all the scores are in.

Details: (1) You will complete all homework questions on Launchpad course site. (2) You will answer multiple choice questions based on the topics covered in the class using the MobLab app / software. The scores will count towards 'class participation'. (3) Questions on the EXAMS are similar to the ones discussed and answered in the class and on the homework. (4) The final exam is essentially cumulative.

B) Exact number of chapters you will be examined on will be announced a week prior to the exam.

Make-up Exam policy

You should make efforts to take the exam on the scheduled day and time. If you must miss it, inform me and set up a make-up time as soon as possible, ASAP. The make-up exam will have open-ended and graph questions.

1. Make up exam is allowed if the excuse is authorized with appropriate documents. There is a penalty (of up to 50% loss) if you do not make up the missed exam within a week of the scheduled day and for not completing the assigned homework in time,
2. The penalty is heavier (up to 100% loss) if you miss the scheduled make up exam.
3. Final exams are scheduled prior to the beginning of each semester by the University. Check the dates for the final exams on the website: <http://finalexams.rutgers.edu> to AVOID CLASHES AND LAST MINUTE REQUESTS FOR MAKEUP EXAM.

DON'T CHEAT

All cheating incidents will be reported to the Director of Undergraduate Studies of the Economics Department.

CHEATING refers to the use of inappropriate or prohibited materials, information, sources, or aids in any academic exercise. Cheating also includes submitting papers, research results and reports, analyses etc. as one's own work when they were, in fact, prepared by others. Some common examples are:

1. copying another student's work or answers on a quiz or examination,
2. Using or possessing books, notes, calculators, cell phones, or other prohibited devices or materials during a quiz or examination,
3. Submitting the same work or major portions thereof to satisfy the requirements of more than one course without permission from the instructors involved,
4. Pre-programming a calculator or other electronic devices to contain answers, formulas, or other unauthorized information for use during a quiz or examination,
5. Acquiring a copy of an examination from an unauthorized source prior to the examination,
6. Having someone else take an examination for one,
7. Getting someone else to prepare a term paper or do the assignment.

The sanction for a Cheating violation ordinarily is an F for the course and suspension for one or more semesters, depending on the seriousness of the violation.

The current Rutgers Code of Student Conduct can be found at <http://policies.rutgers.edu/PDF/Section10/10.2.11-current.pdf>.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Academic Honesty and Code of Conduct

You are expected to adhere to all of Rutgers University's policies and Regulations, in addition to normal standards of acceptable behavior. You must be familiar with and adhere to the University's Academic Integrity Policy stated in the website, <http://academicintegrity.rutgers.edu/integrity.shtml>. Any violation of that policy will be reported as required by the University procedures.

Violations include: cheating, fabrication, plagiarism, denying others access to information or material, and facilitating violations of academic integrity.

Attendance

You are expected to attend all classes. Generally those who attend classes regularly do well in the courses. If you miss one or two classes because of illness or a family emergency, please use the University online absence reporting system (<http://sims.rutgers.edu/ssra>) to report the date and reason for your absence. I will be notified by the system via an e-mail.

Sakai, is the source for important announcements related to exams. The relevant website is: <http://sakai.rutgers.edu/portal>. Look for the course tab: 01:220:102:03. On the class sakai site, you will find chapter related PowerPoint sets, and study guides.
